William Schieffelin, Esq.

Dear Bill:

I sincerely appreciated your note of May 26 about Foster. A great tribute was paid to him here the other day.

Also, I appreciated what you had to say about my own work. I have no thought of dropping it.

Clover joins me in messages to you both.

Sincerely,

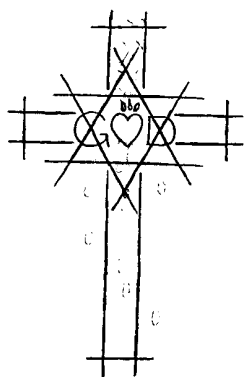

SIGNED

The friendly affirmation ~

"Two thousand years ago a young rabbi, a teacher, heard this call to make love, brotherhood, and justice, the dynamic of all people ~ people of every race, creed, and color.

"All were invited into The Kingdom.
"It was a big order ~ too big ~ for some; although a few believed ~ their hearts on fire ~ alive.

"The others ~"

"Who is this 'God'?"

....

He flipped a silver coin ~
and there it was:
"In God We Trust"

....

He was a happy, smiling youngster.
He was an American.
He wanted to know.

....

I picked up the challenge and asked, "Do you believe in love?"
"Oh ~ that's chemistry!" he parried.

In God We Trust ~
to further those principles of love, brotherhood, and justice,
which we, as men of goodwill,
must defend ~ unto death.

As I drew the outline of the Cross,
a new spirit seemed to stir us.

We were friends.

Friends!

Our hearts were strangely warmed ~ alive!

It was the friendly affirmation:

In God We Trust!

CLEGS.

"Does your mother love you?"

"Your sister?"

"Your father?"

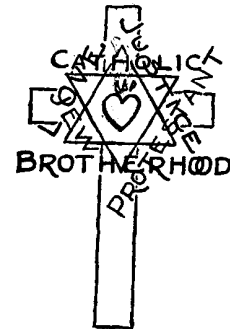

"Your sweetheart ~"

"Yes ~ I suppose so."

He was casual ~ as he watched me draw a slanting
line on an old envelope:

LOVE

~ ALL!"

"The Star of David!" we chimed.

"True ~ the shield and defense of God's people of every creed," I ventured.

"You follow me ~ don't you?"

"Sure ~ go ahead!"
He was interested.

"Love, brotherhood, justice ~ ~ for all people ~ men, women, and children ~ ~ be they:

"Do you believe in brotherhood ~ that under the skin all men are brothers?" I continued.

"I certainly do!"
He was an idealist.

I drew a horizontal line meeting
the first:

"Do you believe in justice?"
"In social and economic justice~"
I added with just a tinge of ballyhoo.

"I surely do!"
He was a realist.

I completed the triangle:

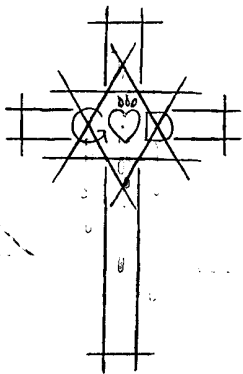

"Have you a heart?"
"~a conscience?"
I pried.

"Everybody has ~more or less."
He was an optimist.

I drew the outline of a heart:

MEMORIAM

JOHN FOSTER DULLES

The friendly affirmation ~ salutes the memory of
JOHN FOSTER DULLES!

"You follow me ~ don't you?"
